"A Toothsome Flavour" True for you, there's a treat in the crisp, nutty, delicate sweet taste of Grape-Nuts served with cream or milk.
(Don't spoil the food by trying to cook it. That work is done and perfected at the factories.) The cream should soften it a bit, but not enough to excuse the teeth from at least a few earnest "chews" for old and young. The good old home doesn't lose the long cheer. Of course the one with weak teeth can soften the food with milk down to a mush if necessary, but the good old home doesn't smile quite so cheerfully on them.
You know, children and adults must use the teeth and grind freely to make them grow strong and to keep them there. Then the act of chewing brings down the much needed saliva from the gums, and that helps along in the digestion of foods of various kinds.
The saliva is not so much required with Grape-Nuts, for this food is partially pre-digested, that is, the starch turned into a form of sugar in the process of making and that helps give it the fascinating flavour.
Grape-Nuts are healthy and enjoy good things. "There's a reason." Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a Reason."
